

Group Project 3 Data

| Name             | Data Type | Description                                                                                                                                                                                   |
|-------------------------|------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Date             | Date             | The date of each order, ranging from January 1, 2023, to April 30, 2023.                                                                                                                             |
| Region           | Integer          | Indicates the region from which the order was placed (1, 2, 3, or 4).                                                                                                                                |
| Unit Price       | Float            | Price per pizza for each order. Set at a base of $16. A 5% discount is applied in Region 3 from March 1, 2023.                                                                                      |
| Quantity Ordered | Integer          | Number of pizzas ordered per day in each region. Generated with region-specific means and volatilities.                                                                                              |
| Distance         | Integer          | Distance from the store to the delivery location, set per region: 2 miles (Region 1), 5 miles (Region 2), 9 miles (Region 3), and 15 miles (Region 4).                                               |
| Delivery Fees    | Float            | Calculated as $0.5 per mile based on distance. A 5% discount is applied in Region 4 from March 1, 2023.                                                                                             |
| Discount Applied | Integer          | Binary indicator (0 or 1) showing if a discount is applied. In Region 3, a 5% discount is applied to food fees; in Region 4, a 5% discount is applied to delivery fees, both starting March 1, 2023. |